Self-audit for English Majors
not for concentrations in American Literature, Film, Theatre or Writing

The major in English consists of a minimum of ten courses. At least six of the ten must be taken at Barnard. [see new major requirement beginning with the class of 2014 below]*

Name ___________________________ Adviser __________________________

1. □ 3193 Critical Writing (formerly called Literary Criticism & Theory)

2. The English Colloquia (or substitutions. Please Note: For one Colloquium, two substitutions are necessary; for both Colloquia, three substitutions. For a list of admissible substitutions, see the departmental website. One of the substitutions also fulfills one of the pre-1900 requirements.)

   □ 3159 Colloquium I: The Renaissance
   -- or --
   two courses, at least one of which must be in Medieval or Renaissance literature (Only one substitution may be in Shakespeare):
   1. ___________________________________________________
   2. ___________________________________________________

   □ 3160 Colloquium II: The Enlightenment
   -- or --
   two courses, at least one of which must be in Restoration (1660-1700) or 18th-century literature:
   1. ___________________________________________________
   2. ___________________________________________________

   The other may be in literature either of the Renaissance or of the Restoration or 18th century

3. □ Two courses in English or American literature written before 1900

   1. ___________________________________________________
   2. ___________________________________________________

4. □ One additional course in English, American, or Global literature

   1. ___________________________________________________

5. □ Two elective courses chosen from the entire English Department offering (i.e., writing, speech, theater, 3140, 3144 but not the Colloquia (3159-60), English Conference (3191), The Writer's Process (3101), and Rhetorical Choices: the Theory and Practice of Public Speaking (3123). With the approval of the Chair of the Barnard Department of English, one course based in the literature of a foreign language (in English translation or in the original language) can count as an elective. (See our page on Substitutions for more details.)

   1. ___________________________________________________
   2. ___________________________________________________
6. Two senior seminars (BC3997x, 3998y)

1. _________________________________
2. _________________________________

updated 9/13/10

* New requirement for English majors graduating in 2014: You must take at least one course in American Literature. It can simultaneously fulfill other requirements (elective, pre-1900, etc.) where appropriate. Taking American Literature is encouraged for, but not required of, English majors graduating in 2011, 2012, and 2013.